The Chief Elf of Christmas

By Augie

Ok Santa: you can't put it off any longer Christmas is just around the corner and you haven't even checked your suit since you took it off last year. You should be rested up by now even though you went south and "played" around and came back and then got the wild idea that you wanted to see the country from the ground on a motorcycle. Really I don't know where you get these crazy ideas, you're just like an over grown kid. Maybe that's why you like your job so much. You need to think about retiring soon. There are some junior elves that could do a commendable job.

"Ok, Ok I will start tomorrow by checking the lists", I am sure I can get elf Patty Perfect to help me. One thing I am not going to do this year is deliver the presents with batteries, we almost didn't get off the ground last year and when we got back I thought the reindeer had gone on strike. I later found they were just exhausted and the medical bills from treating them cost way too much and you know we don't have affordable health care. That's really why I had to leave after the trip so my approval rating wouldn't hit rock bottom. Everyone knows you must keep the ones who support you happy no matter what you may have to do.

What's the long range weather forecast? Check with McMurray, I trust him, he tells it like it is and doesn't glorify bad weather. By the way "how's Rudolph, he's not suffering from depression again, is he?"

Santa you are losing touch, haven't you heard he has found the love of his life and couldn't be happier except the rumor is that he said he will not lead the sleigh this year unless she can go along. I told him that is against regulations that but he said he could find a way around that. There is rumor going around that she is going to take a trip to the mountains while Rudolph is gone.

So all you Santa's out there get busy, your chief elf has spoken and when you get back from your yearly trip thank her by doing something special for her, she has put up with you for all these years.

Just like Bill Cosby's wife says about Bill: "he is just a kid in adult clothing."
